The fight promotion is talking to the British broadcasting giant BBC about airing live shows in the UK as early as next year, according to ESPN. Under the deal, the network will air UFC events on its Red Button television network, which is available to those with internet-connected TVs. Other conditions of the deal are not yet known, though it is thought to involve the UFC's exposure on the Red Button service going beyond just one UFC event per month. The UFC has made previous attempts to sell its fights to terrestrial broadcasters in the UK, which saw limited success, as both BT and Sky Television were unwilling to fork out around £30million (approximately $40m) each for the rights to screen the UFC in their homes. The UFC, which was established in 1993 and boasts an average annual attendance of more than 15,000 fans, is the largest single sports organisation in the United States. It also owns UFC Japan, the tear by means of a physical examination. This is the subject of the present article, which is based on the case study of three patients, who came for treatment of painful knee joints on account of an impairment of joint function. In none of the patients the diagnosis was made in the course of the usual physical examination. In the first patient, an old, asymptomatic and incidentally detected cartilaginous lesion of the medial meniscus was found by arthrography. After arthroscopy 2d92ce491b
