Sep 22, 2019 Start "Control Panel" then choose "System and Security". Click on the icon that looks like a gear, just below your Start button. Click the "System Properties" button. Click on "Device Manager" from the "System Properties" window. Look for the name of your USB port. Double-click it, or right-click and then click "Open". In the box that pops up, type in the Device ID number . It should look like this: USB\VID_04E9&PID_A001\24&50C6C7&0&0\2 Copy the number and paste it into your crack license key. Where it says the "Driver Description:" for "Type 1 USB Device" Please choose the option that says "Unknown Device." Click Apply, then OK. Click OK to close the Device Manager. Press the Windows key, type "Start" and click on the window that says "System". Click the "Start" button. When the Windows desktop is ready to start, click "My Computer". On the left side of the window, select "Devices". You should now see your brand new USB. Click "Devices and Printers". Right-click on the new USB device and select "Properties". Go to the "Compatibility" tab, and then click on the "Device Type" drop-down list. Click on "Unknown Device" then select "Update Driver Software". Click the "Browse My Computer for Driver Software" button. Click "Let Me Pick From A List of Drivers on My Computer". Select the "Select a Device" option and then click on "Next". Click on the "Don't Search" button, and then click "Next". Click "Browse" and then click on the top-most folder. Navigate to the root of your Drive C:\. Select the folder named "Adobe" and click the OK button. If the folder is not found, you may need to install "Windows Search" by running this command in the Command Window: %systemroot%\system32\xcopy.exe /d /s %systemroot%\system32* "C:\Program Files\Adobe\Adobe Flash Player" Click the "Select files" button and then select "OK" .
