Smartphones and related components (e.g., display and battery) .37 F.3d 1506NOTICE: Ninth Circuit Rule 36-3 provides that dispositions other than opinions or orders designated for publication are not precedential and should not be cited except when relevant under the doctrines of law of the case, res judicata, or collateral estoppel. UNITED STATES of America, Plaintiff-Appellee, v. Rico Paul AMAYA, Defendant-Appellant. No. 93-10495. United States Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit. Submitted Sept. 10, 1994.*Decided Sept. 23, 1994. Before: HALL, WIGGINS, and FERNANDEZ, Circuit Judges. 1 MEMORANDUM

2 Rico Paul Amaya appeals his conviction for possessing with intent to distribute more than 500 grams of cocaine in violation of 21 U.S.C. Sec. 841(a)(1) and 18 U.S.C. Sec. 2. Amaya challenges the sufficiency of the evidence on the sole issue of possession. The district court had jurisdiction pursuant to 18 U.S.C. Sec. 3231. We have jurisdiction over this timely appeal pursuant to 28 U.S.C. Sec. 1291. We affirm. 3 The standard for reviewing sufficiency of the evidence claims is whether, after reviewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the prosecution, any rational trier of fact could have found the essential elements of the crime beyond a reasonable doubt. Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U.S. 307, 319 (1979); United States v. Bishop, 959 F.2d 820, 829 (9th Cir.1992). A jury may find possession beyond a reasonable doubt based on circumstantial evidence. United States v. Gutierrez, 995 F.2d 169, 173 (9th Cir.1993). Circumstantial evidence is entitled to the same weight as direct evidence, provided the circumstantial evidence supports the jury's conclusion. Bishop, 959 F.2d at 829. Circumstantial evidence need not exclude every reasonable hypothesis other than guilt. Id. 4 Here, Amaya was found by a border patrol agent with a total of 2,036 grams of cocaine in the trunk 2d92ce491b
