. The band made their name (and their genre as well) known with singles like "She's So High" and "Freak Scene". The week before they performed at an all-ages show in Seattle, Soundgarden was only signed to an independent label. With "Hunted By a Freak" the sludge metal band became an overnight sensation as the first charting, best-selling Seattle band. On March 20,, the band was presented with a Kurt Cobain Tribute Award at the Seattle Music Awards in the Seattle Denny Auditorium by members of Nirvana and Mudhoney. Cobain was found dead three months after this performance. The band toured extensively until their disbandment in late 1996. In 1999, an EP titled Broken was released by the band. The band recorded a cover of "We Can Be Friends", which was featured on the soundtrack of the film, Mallrats. A farewell album, titled Outro, was recorded and released in 2001. It featured a cover of the Johnny Cash song "I Walk the Line". The band performed on the Vans Warped Tour in the summer of 2000, which was a tour conceived by Joey Santiago of the Santiago brothers and Matt Griggs of the D. Their set list was considered by fans as their best ever and as the show included six songs from their first album as well as a cover of The Killers "When You Were Young" and "The Boys Have No Talent", which was a song originally performed by The Jesus Lizard. In November 2005, Wilber returned to Europe with the band to play at the 2005 Zillo Festival in Madrid, Spain. Wilber and Stumpf have since returned to the band twice, in 2008 and 2011. In 2009, the band released a cover version of "You Could Be Mine" by The Cure as the lead single from the Ain't Life Grand: The Songs of the Who live album. In August 2010, Wilber joined The Early November for a short tour with The Early November, which featured a new full band line-up with a heavier, more melodic direction. In December 2010, when Rufus Wainwright was in town for a concert at the Paramount Theatre, The Early November performed as his back-up band for a series of concerts. In 2012, The Early November released a cover of the Pink Floyd song "The Great Gig in the Sky" on the compilation album, In the Aeroplane Over the Sea: Rarities and Classics from the First Two Decades.
