I keep getting this error when I run this line in python: con = psycopg2.connect(database = db, user = username, password = password, host = host) Traceback (most recent call last): File "C:/Users/Inaki Gomez/Desktop/Sandwich.py", line 5, in con = psycopg2.connect(database = db, user = username, password = password, host = host) NameError: name 'min_disconnect_time' is not defined I don't understand what is this error about because I have no 'min_disconnect_time' in my code. A: The psycopg2 documentation says: Database connections It is highly recommended that you call psycopg2.connect() instead of using the connection string parameters directly. [...] If you don't do that and just try to pass the parameters as standard values in a string, psycopg2 thinks that 'min_disconnect_time' is a custom parameter name that 3e33713323
