Download Avast! File Server Security 2017 [English] TopFormer President Obama and President Trump often clash on Twitter. | AP Photo Trump loses $1 billion on Twitter, by our count President Donald Trump lost $1 billion in the first half of 2017 on the stock market because he is too busy tweeting. Trump lost $1.2 billion, or roughly 4 percent of the value of his holdings, between January and mid-June, according to an analysis of the latest public filings by The Washington Post and Business Insider. The declines mostly stemmed from his stake in the economic data firm, Election Systems and Software. During the first half of the year, the percentage of Trump's portfolio that had lost money was the highest for any president since the Washington Post began tracking White House losses in 1995, according to a Post analysis. Trump also topped the losses of George W. Bush, who saw his stock portfolio fall 10 percent in the first half of the year. The losses for Trump since he was first elected in November 2016 have surpassed $13.5 billion. Trump and stock market analysts have long warned that his erratic behavior could be detrimental to the market — including a tweet storm about the stock market for much of 2017. The new analysis showed that the market's decline on his watch didn't increase with Trump's daily Twitter attacks on the stock market and the corporate world. While Trump has been more frequent on Twitter since taking office, he has also been more specific in his criticisms of companies such as Boeing and Harley Davidson. His 2016 and 2017 attacks on Boeing and Harley-Davidson both contributed to sharp losses for the companies.
