I've a website where I'm storing the data into the database and i'm fetching data from there and displaying it to the user. My website contains a database of names so I can search the database and filter out the names starting with a specific string. For example, 1. I can search for "Mockup" and it will show all the mockups listed in the database. 2. I can search for "Mock-up" and it will show all the mockups listing in the database and I don't want the listing to show if the name starts with "mock". 3. I can search for "Mockup" and it will show all the mockups listed in the database and I don't want the listing to show if the name starts with "mock". What's the best way to do this using PHP? A: See if this works for you.
