nfsOverWater02 Description: This scre...The present invention relates generally to a device for monitoring the temperature of an electrically heated windshield wiper arm of a motor vehicle. The problem of monitoring the temperature of an electrically heated windshield wiper arm of a motor vehicle has not heretofore been solved satisfactorily and the results produced by the prior art attempts to solve the problem have not been satisfactory. The conventional temperature monitors have typically included a temperature sensor and a power supply with a circuit for activating the power supply in response to the temperature sensor signaling the danger of a potential break down of the windshield wiper arm. Because the wiper arms are, of course, energized when the windshield wipers are in use, conventional temperature monitors have produced false indications of possible wiper arm failure. One such device is illustrated in U.S. Pat. No. 4,191,932. In the device of this patent, the power supply is initially energized for a relatively short period of time and the current draw of the power supply is monitored. A thermostat is energized when the current draw of the power supply exceeds a predetermined value and the thermostat conducts current therethrough to the motor of the windshield wiper arm to thereby energize the wiper arm. However, this device monitors the current draw of the power supply rather than the temperature of the power supply. Further, the long term current draw of the power supply does not indicate the potential for a wiper arm failure.Q: How to select elements and traverse a line graph in pandas?
